“ Words cannot express the pain I am feeling! Vera was a very stern person but soft as a lamb. She would give you the clothes off her back. She will truly be missed by so many. Love ya and give my mom, uncles and grandparents a big hug and kiss from me.

“ Thank you for sharing Vera's photos. I haven't seen her in years but have fond memories of her during school years. I didnt know she too was battling with cancer. So many are and it is such a dreadful disease. It looks like she was courageous and remained strong. My deepest condolences to the family of Vera Nero. RIP!

“ OMG! I was relaxing my a nice bath when my dear middle school friend popped in my mind. Excited to reunite with her, I immediately got out and started searching for her on the internet...only to find out that cancer had taken her away from me. When my family relocated from NY to SC the kids treated me unkind because I talked and acted different from them. Vera was one of the very few people who befriended me and accepted me for me. We would speak for hours on the phone about hairstyles, classmates, family situation, church etc. I am deeply saddened that I did not find her sooner to support her through her cancer battle. I lost my baby brother to cancer 10 years ago. I'd like to think that he and Vera are hanging out together in heaven. RIP my dear friend. My condolences to the Nero family.
